

ORDERING BOOKS

After you've registered for a course, you can find the books needed on the course info page in Populi. Click on the book title and you will be shown the bibliographic information for the book.

Though we don't endorse any particular online bookstore, most, if not all, of our required books can be found at amazon.com where you can check for prices and what a particular edition includes. Some instructors choose editions that include a CD/DVD. When you are looking at the book information screen, you will see "Info courtesy of Amazon" in the bottom right hand corner. If you click on it, you will be taken directly to the book in Amazon.

Here are some other websites where you can buy or rent your books. You may also be able to purchase e-books as well.

<http://campusbooks4less.com/>

<http://www.ecampus.com/>

<http://www.barnesandnoble.com/>

<http://www.half.ebay.com>

www.chegg.com

www.campusbookrentals.com

www.collegebookrenter.com

www.textbookrentals.com

This isn't a book store but compares prices of online bookstores:

<http://www.bestwebbuys.com/books/>

At any particular site, you can search for books by typing in the ISBN identification listed for each book on the booklist. Note that the ISBN is either ten or thirteen digits long and might include a letter. Before purchasing used books be sure to check that what you are purchasing is the correct edition. Many times you will find very cheap textbooks, but they might be an older edition. Also, be aware if the instructor has selected an edition that comes with a CD/DVD. You'll want to be sure that it will come with your purchase of a used book.

As you order your books, you can have them shipped directly to Providence after August 1. We'll hold onto them until you arrive. That way you won't have to carry all that extra weight. Please use the following mailing address for your books:

[Your Name]
Providence Christian College
1539 E. Howard Street
Pasadena, CA 91104

The booklist is current, but note that instructors may ask that additional books be purchased for the class later on.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the registrar's office.